Question

First, there is no call out for a depth of excavation; normally there is a depth of unsuitable soils to remove before any rocking can begin. That being said, I assume that we are bidding on who can provide the most rock installed for $60,000? That really doesn't make sense; I would think there needs to be a minimum depth of rock base depending on the soil conditions. Second, there is no mention of a waste disposal site. Is there any and where?

Answer

Depth is dependent on quantity bid. There has already been fill placed to our required depth. Contract is to complete the building pad. Contractor becomes owner of the removed material, but must have ITD approval for their disposal site prior to placing material.

There are no other changes.
