

Blasting update: Wednesday, June 25

June 25, 2014

Crews will blast rock again at the Gowen Interchange tonight (Wednesday, June 25).

ITD has adjusted tonight's blasting schedule to help reduce traffic backups and give crews more room for cleanup.

- The blasting will begin at 8 p.m. tonight. The detour tonight will affect Gowen Road, I-84 and southbound Broadway Avenue. Click here for a detour map.
- The eastbound I-84 off-ramp at Gowen Road will be restriped overnight to help reduce backups. At 5 a.m. Thursday, both lanes on the ramp will have the option to turn left. The ramp has been reduced to two lanes while crews add temporary pavement nearby.
- The eastbound off-ramp at Gowen Road will remain closed until 5 a.m. Thursday during the restriping and blasting cleanup. Traffic will be detoured to Eisenman Road.
- Flaggers will direct traffic on Gowen Road until 5 a.m. Thursday during the cleanup. One lane will be open in both directions on Gowen Road.
- Crews will not blast Thursday night (June 26). All roads will be open.

Please plan ahead for detours and leave plenty of time when traveling through the area. You are welcome to contact us with questions anytime.
