The Idaho Transportation Department is conducting a traffic study and environmental analysis for Interstate 84 between Caldwell and the Karcher Interchange in Nampa. This project is a part of long-range plans to improve safety and mobility on I-84 in the Treasure Valley. At a minimum, ITD anticipates the plans will include additional lanes on I-84 and potential improvements to existing interchanges.

TRAFFIC STUDY
A detailed traffic study will help ITD confirm today’s traffic volumes and project future traffic on I-84 between Caldwell and the Karcher Interchange in Nampa. The results will help ITD identify needed improvements and will help ITD determine how far west into Caldwell improvements need to be made.

ENVIRONMENTAL EVALUATION
ITD will evaluate a range of potential improvements to I-84 between Caldwell and the Karcher Interchange in Nampa. The environmental analysis will help ITD determine alternatives that will improve long-term mobility while minimizing impacts to the human and natural environment.

As a part of the environmental evaluation, ITD will consider potential impacts to adjacent properties, minority populations, noise, floodplains, wetlands, air quality and many other factors. The project will include surveying and mapping, environmental research and reports, geotechnical investigation, drainage and hydraulic analysis, and public involvement.

SCHEDULE
The traffic study and environmental evaluation are underway. ITD anticipates this process will be complete in approximately 18 months. Once the traffic study and environmental evaluation is approved, ITD will begin design, right-of-way plans and construction for funded projects. ITD is looking at all available strategies to expedite the environmental analysis and design process, and advance construction.

FUNDING
ITD has allocated $193 million to study, design and construct improvements to I-84 between Caldwell and the Karcher Interchange in Nampa. The extent of the improvements will be determined by the traffic study and environmental analysis.

COMMUNITY INPUT
Community input will play an important role in shaping the future of the I-84 corridor in Canyon County. Please watch for invitations to provide input.
